

Halebury at the Economist Events' General Counsel 2017

Halebury is proud to be part of the Economist Events' General Counsel 2017 on November 2nd.

This is a top-level event that sets out to find compelling solutions to meet changing expectations, and respond to mounting demands and emerging responsibilities experienced by in-house legal specialists. Expert interviewees and panellists will explore the shifting landscape of the legal profession in order to gain a better understanding of evolving dynamics within organisations and teams. Sessions will investigate how strategic input is increasingly being sought from in-house counsel and what impact this has on service in- and out-sourcing trends. The full agenda to the day can be viewed on link below:

<https://events.economist.com/events-conferences/emea/general-counsel-2017/>

Halebury co-founder Janvi Patel will be joining a panel of GCs and leading law firm managers to discuss how to create a new model for relationships with law firms.